- to provide input; and third, that Plaintiffs can seek to address this Court if significant problems arise.
- Thank you, your Honor.
- THE COURT: All right. Anyone else speaking from any of the Plaintiffs here?

(No audible response)

- If not, I'm going to -- is it, Ms. Colmenero, are you taking the lead or Mr. Frederick?
 - MS. COLMENERO: Your Honor, this is Angela Colmenero.

 I will be responding to this point on behalf of the State

 Defendants.
- THE COURT: Okay, you can proceed.
- 13 MS. COLMENERO: Thank you.

Let me first start off with saying that effective and meaningful voter education and election official training are extremely important to the State Defendants. The only question that education and training are essential during any election cycles, but the State recognizes that this particular election cycle is unique, given the new procedures that will be implemented on this Court's forthcoming order, which include the introduction of the reasonable impediment declaration in the next few months before the 2016 November general election.

This is precisely why the Secretary of State Office has developed a voter education campaign that is far more expansive than anything the State has done in the past.

- 1 Indeed, the Secretary of State has dedicated slightly more than
- 2 $2.5 million to spend in the next three months before the 2016
- 3 November general election.
- 4 THE COURT: So the plan is already in place? We have
- 5 some specifics?
- 6 MS. COLMENERO: Your Honor, the State started
- 7 preparing for the November general election in terms of getting
- 8 | vendors to be the -- an engagement of the PR firm, as well as
- 9 the advertising firm, to help the State develop a mass media
- 10 campaign message to educate voters about the November -- the
- 11 | changes that perhaps were pending in the November general
- 12 election. So -- and that is what the State reports in its
- 13 August 5th filing.
- So while the parties have made great strides to reach
- 15 an agreement on the terms in the interim remedy order, the
- 16 State Defendants object to the language proposed by the
- 17 | Plaintiffs regarding voter education and election worker
- 18 training for two reasons.
- 19 First, the language that the Plaintiffs put in their
- 20 proposed submission is vague and undefined, as we've already
- 21 | said. They want the Court to include a requirement that the
- 22 parties meet and confer and allow them meaningful input into
- 23 what we intend to do.
- 24 THE COURT: Okay, let me just ask, because it's a
- 25 | little confusing. I can't tell if you all have already met and

1
    conferred about what specifically the Defendant State of Texas 2
    here is planning to do. That wasn't clear to me. Have you all --
 3
 4
                         We have not, your Honor.
              MS. PEREZ:
 5
              THE COURT:
                         Okay --
 6
              MS. PEREZ: We have not. We have not seen any -- 7
              THE COURT: Wait, wait, wait. Wait.
                                                          I'm
 8
    talking to Ms. Colmenero.
 9
              Correct?
10
              MS. COLMENERO: That's correct, your Honor. Let me 11
    be clear. During the meet and confer process we did provide 12
    the Plaintiffs with the different media channels that we 13 intended to use for the voter education campaign that we -- 14 that are part of the contract that the State has with its 15 public relations firm and its advertising firm. In terms of 16
    the specific complaints that the Plaintiffs have raised today, 17
    that is the first time that we are hearing about that.
18
              THE COURT: Okay, well then this doesn't work, 19
    Counsel. I mean I ordered you all to meet and confer. So 20
    we're just now talking about things on the day of the hearing.
21
    That's not a good thing. Right?
22
              MS. PEREZ: (Indiscernible)
23
              THE COURT: But you can proceed, Ms. Colmenero.
24
              MS. COLMENERO: Your Honor, if I may clarify a couple of points too regarding the concerns the Plaintiffs have raised

1 regarding the website.

Several of those issues where they claim that there were deficient notices on the website have, in fact, been updated overnight. This is a fluid process the State is undergoing in terms of the tax ratification elections that are occurring on a weekly basis and we're trying to adjust our processes and the Court has been very patient with us with the entry of the Temporary Remedial Orders. And as those Orders have been coming out, for example, the one last night, the State was updating its website overnight, and those pages that the Plaintiffs have pointed out as being deficient are, in fact, now updated.

THE COURT: Okay, but that's just an example, though, if you all were just to sit and visit that could probably be taken care of. Right?

MS. COLMENERO: Your Honor, we agree. We would like the Plaintiffs to provide us with specific issues, which we have provided them, you know, what the State's plan was, but this is the first time we're hearing about any type of other deficiencies that are out there that perhaps the State could correct.

THE COURT: Okay. What else?

MS. PEREZ: May I respond, your Honor?

THE COURT: No, not yet. It's not your turn. Right?

25 Ms. Colmenero's speaking.

- MS. COLMENERO: Your Honor, may I continue?
- 2 THE COURT: Yes.

- 3 MS. COLMENERO: Okay. So as I was saying, Defendants
- 4 object to the inclusion of the meet and confer requirement, as
- 5 | well as the meaningful input requirement, because the
- 6 Defendants want clear and definable terms in the Court's orders
- 7 to provide them confidence that they are, in fact, complying
- 8 | with the Court's order.
- 9 THE COURT: But I can't do that with some vague
- 10 details of a possible plan or that you all might do this or
- 11 | that and the other. I expect you all are going to have to
- 12 provide the Court a lot of the details that Plaintiffs are kind
- 13 of requesting. Right?
- MS. COLMENERO: Well, and, your Honor, in terms of
- 15 | the August 15th filing that the State is required to provide to
- 16 this Court, we can provide some additional specifics. But our
- 17 | concern is that what I heard the Plaintiffs to say is that they
- 18 | basically want us to lay out what in our mind is a three-month
- 19 | plan for voter education and produce it to them within five
- 20 days.
- 21 THE COURT: But here's the problem here. What I'm
- 22 | hearing the Plaintiffs say is "X" -- well, and this goes back
- 23 to the point that you all haven't sat and conferred about this.
- 24 Right?
- 25 MS. COLMENERO: Your Honor, the focus of the parties' given the timetables that we were faced with.

- meet and confer, to be fair, was really focused on the implementation of the reasonable impediment affidavit. The parties didn't progress very far in terms of voter education,
 - THE COURT: I know, but I think I told you all to confer about everything. Right? So you all could have just told the Court you know what, Court, we actually need a little bit more time because we're not finished with this aspect of it. Right? I've been very flexible with you guys because I know you all are working hard.
 - MS. COLMENERO: Yes, your Honor, and we do appreciate that, and the parties did not progress very far down the voter education and outreach issues --
 - THE COURT: But it's not closed. I mean you all just didn't get there because you all didn't have enough time or you all didn't get there because nobody wants to get there?
 - MS. COLMENERO: We provided them details and we never heard a response to those details. So we never heard kind of a counter proposal by the Plaintiffs and so -- and that just happened right before the deadline before the Court required us to file the Joint Submission of Agreed Terms.
 - But I think some of the -- from the State's standpoint, I think our concerns from what the Plaintiffs are requesting or from what we just heard today is they're essentially going to force us to take a three-month contract

- 28 1 that we have with our vendors and produce it in five days and 2 the State does need flexibility to execute our concept with our 3 vendors and we need flexibility to improve contact, because it's a fluid process in terms of as how we get --4 5 THE COURT: And I agree with that, but at some point, and not just the Plaintiffs, the Court needs to know the 6 7 details of what you all are doing --8 MS. COLMENERO: Well --
- MS. COLMENERO: And, your Honor, I think what we were waiting on at our end was obviously the implementation of the Court's Order setting forth the interim remedies and at that point we then know what message to provide to the voters.

 Because constantly updating our website in terms of trying to keep the temporary status of things, we didn't want to create more confusion.

THE COURT: I understand that, but it's something that we all need to sit and visit about together about what's best and not just allow, you know, the State to go and do what they think is right and appropriate. I mean the Court's obligated to know the details, the Plaintiffs need to know the details.

So I mean maybe what I do is I enter the joint submission as an order and we continue to work on education and training, which will be ongoing up until, you know, the

1 | election, I'm assuming.
```

- MS. COLMENERO: Your Honor, I think the terms set forth in the Joint Submission of Agreed Terms, and specifically the requirement set forth in Paragraphs 10 through 12, are appropriate. The State agrees with those. And so I think the process your Honor set out is something that we would be okay with.
- 8 THE COURT: Okay. Anything else from the Defense at 9 this time before I let Ms. Perez respond?
- 10 MS. COLMENERO: Well, I think --
 - THE COURT: Let's just finish up this issue and then we can move to the additional terms that the State was requesting.
- MS. COLMENERO: Your Honor, that's all from the State

 Defendants at this time.
- THE COURT: Okay then, Ms. Perez?
 - MS. PEREZ: Thank you, your Honor. I would note a few things. The kind of information that Plaintiffs were given looked very, very similar to the kind of bare boned insufficient information that was put in front of the Court on the August 5th filing. There is no mechanism for the Court or the Plaintiffs to be able to assess from that what is going to be -- whether or not the materials produced and accorded to those five channels is accurate, done under what timetable, or is going to be adequate. And it is for this reason that we - have been specifically requesting in advance an understanding of what purportedly Texas intends to do.

 - I would encourage the Court to review this morning the website that I -- that we took screen shots on yesterday. I feel very confident in saying that the Court would not find the modifications that have been made adequate. There are couple of notations about changes that are happening in very small elections involving a couple of thousand of people, but even the language, when Texas was alerted about it as to, you know, Shelby County abrogating all pending litigation, et cetera, et cetera, has not been modified. Whatever updates they made last night, after being told in many ways (indiscernible) this issue has been raised before the Court, is not up to task.

We are interested in providing our input, but we believe that without the help of the Court we're constantly going to be coming back to the Court saying we didn't get enough details to know.

THE COURT: Well, you might be, but if you don't --

MS. PEREZ: We were not able to get that.

THE COURT: You might be going to come back to the Court, but it didn't sound like you all really conferred in the first place. Right?

MS. PEREZ: We certainly -- certainly we made an effort to try and get the kind of info that we needed in order
